...make a Will

As we've started a New Year it's a good idea to have another look at that Will which has gathered dust over the years and perhaps now needs to be reviewed. And if you do not have a current valid Will, now is the time to remind you why it is important to have a Will in place:

- By making a will you can make sure your estate goes to the right people in the right proportions, thereby avoiding family quarrels and expense;
- If you and your partner are not married or civil partners, it is vital to make a will; otherwise your partner, however long you have been together, may get a raw deal;
- If you and your spouse are separated but not divorced (by decree absolute), unless you make a will to the contrary, they may well inherit your estate;
- You can choose your executors (the people who will carry out the instructions in your will) yourself;
- You can give great pleasure to people dear to you by leaving them keepsakes or small gifts, and you may even be able to right some past wrongs;
- You may be able to reduce the amount of Inheritance Tax payable.
